

Best of luck, Karl

ROVE'S OFFICE MATES BID HIM GOOD-BYE

*Iraq, 9/11, the war on terror ... good times!
—your staff in WH political affairs*

*You found me naked in a dumpster, covered in my own vomit, and you saw a future president—talk about “the vision thing”!
—George W. Bush*

*Thanks for everything, including letting me keep my job for so long.
—Andy Card*

*See you in hell!
Or, we could meet at your place.
—Dick Cheney*

*In my well-respected legal opinion, if you ignore subpoenas they tend to go away.
—Harriet Miers*

*Remember when you sent Andy and me to see Ashcroft in the hospital to get him to sign that document ... what was that all about, anyway?
—Alberto Gonzales*

*That thing you told me about Iran ... was that going to happen in December or January?
Bob Novak*

*REMEMBER SOUTH CAROLINA, 2000? I DO. WATCH YOUR BACK. BECAUSE WHEN YOU LEAST EXPECT IT, I WILL RIP YOUR TRACHEA FROM YOUR NECK AND MAKE A FLUTE FROM IT.
—JOHN MCCAIN*

*P.S.—OFFER IS STILL GOOD ON HELPING OUT MY CAMPAIGN.
P.P.S.—I'M SERIOUS ABOUT THE TRACHEA/FLUTE THING.*

*May the clarion call of history's trumpets accompany your future journeys.
—Michael Gerson*

*That's my line, you jerk.
—Matthew Scully*

*About spending more time with me and the kids ... let's discuss.
—Darby Hickson Rove*

Jeff Nussbaum is a principal in the speechwriting and strategy firm West Wing Writers. Eric Schnure is a freelance speechwriter and an adjunct professor at American University. Dan Goor is an Emmy Award-winning writer for Late Night With Conan O'Brien. They write collectively as the Humor Cabinet, and can be reached at comments@humorcabinet.com

